Theories of Educational Leadership and Management By Tony Bush

In this established text Tony Bush presents the major theories of educational management, and links them to contemporary policy and practice. Leadership continues to be one of the major criteria used to differentiate the models but in this edition, the author makes clear links between educational management theories and the main models of leadership. The author applies the models to a range of international contexts, including both developed and developing countries. This book is essential reading for all teachers who aspire to management, as well as for experienced leaders on Masters' level courses, and for those studying school management as part of education studies degrees.

Editorial Review

Review

'Much has changed in educational leadership and management since the first edition appeared in 1986. Preparation for leadership in schools, colleges, and universities has radically changed in many parts of the world during these decades. Throughout this period, the editions of Tony Bush's book have remained a significant resource for scholars, students and practitioners, reflecting both continuities and evolution in leadership and management theory. This latest edition provides readers with a comprehensive overview of the range of relevant theory and ways of thinking about the interplay of different theories. It is a foundational text for all those interested in how educational leadership and management can be understood and developed'

University of Southampton

'At a time when education is about instrumental delivery and can do enthusiasm for reforms, it is heartening to see that a book about theory and theorising is in its fourth edition. Tony Bush's focus on helping the field to describe and understand practice is helpful and crucial for professional learning and development' -

Professor Helen M Gunter
University of Manchester
